

Water is Life

Every watershed remembers when Earth was paradise.

Every river longs to be restored to its original truth, goodness and beauty.

Every living being dwells in a watershed, where the presence of water reveals the sanctity of life.

All life.

Life cannot exist without water. Not on this planet, anyway.

*Any group of humans who would poison and sicken their waters may be delusional. Perhaps pathologically disturbed.
Or unaware that they are addicted to the poisons themselves.*

So addicted as to be in dire need of intervention.

Sometimes intervention can come too late.

We don't have another planet.

This is the only water planet.

Life is made of water. We are made of water.

Every cell, vessel, vein, artery, organ is made of water.

Maybe we are realizing this in a new way.

Indigenous people never forgot this. They are reminding us that we are water.

They are trying to protect the waters.

They are trying to protect us.

Thank you Indigenous Water Protectors throughout the Earth.

You are in touch with the memory of water in your bodies,

in your rivers,

in your watersheds.

At Standing Rock, at the meeting of two great waters,

you are showing us what it takes to restore Paradise.
